Medical Education Award Presented at Emergency Medicine Forum to Creagh Boulger, MD, FACEP

Columbus, OH—On May 3, at the Emergency Medicine Forum, the Ohio Chapter of the American College of Emergency Physicians (Ohio ACEP) was pleased to present the 2017 Emergency Physician Medical Education Award to an outstanding physician educator, Creagh Boulger, MD, FACEP.

The Emergency Physician Medical Education Award was established to recognize contributions to education in the field of emergency medicine. The honor is bestowed upon emergency physicians who have exhibited exemplary teaching skills, implemented an exceptional education program, or developed an innovative teaching model.

Dr. Creagh Boulger, who is Assistant Professor and Associate Fellowship Director of Ultrasound at The Ohio State University Department of Emergency Medicine, meets and exceeds these criteria. As a leader of her residency's emergency medicine ultrasound program, Dr. Boulger and her colleagues have developed a truly outstanding ultrasound curriculum. Dr. Boulger is deeply respected for her clinical expertise, boundless enthusiasm for resident education, and her dedication to her residents' educational and personal growth.

Dr. Boulger was nominated by Dr. Daniel Adams on behalf of his fellow Ohio State residents. In his nomination letter, Dr. Adams described Dr. Boulger as an energetic, inspirational, and selfless educator who treats her residents as though they were family. The ultrasound curriculum developed by Dr. Boulger and her colleagues, Dr. Adams says, is second to none and has greatly strengthened her residents' confidence and expertise.

In their letter nominating Dr. Boulger, her residents were enthusiastic in their praise, saying she is a tireless advocate for her residents' education and wellness, an instructor who is never too busy to answer questions, and—above all—an outstanding role model for future attending emergency physicians and educators.

Ohio ACEP congratulates Dr. Creagh Boulger for her well-deserved accolade!
